ABSTRACT

Mannose-containing palm kernel meal obtained by functioning a mannan degrading enzyme or an acidic catalyst to palm kernel meal. Mannose can be produced at a high yield by using palm kernel meal which is highly resourceful. An extraction process is not necessarily required in using free mannose effectively so that enzymically treated palm kernel meal containing the degradation product may be used untreated. It may be dried or extracted if necessary.